

SIGN UP ►

FOOD + DINING | STYLE | ENTERTAINMENT | TRAVEL | NIGHTLIFE | HOME + GADGETS
PLUS ► MUSIC | SEX + DATING | SPORTS + FITNESS | CAREER + MONEY | CARS

THRILLIST NATION

THURSDAY NOVEMBER 5, 2009

The List

Mix: CIMIO Software

This new PC/Mac software lets you easily create DJ-caliber playlists and track-transitions by importing your tunes, running each song through an algorithm to determine beats per minute and unique song structure (downbeats, waveforms, etc), and properly "beatmatching" tracks with similar tempos/structure. Pick a track, and it'll highlight others that "match" and transition seamlessly; if you want to follow it with a song that doesn't match, you can use its mixing tool to automatically connect them fluidly, using a technique live DJs call "dropping on the 1", which they also do on the subway ride home if the passed apps don't sit that well.

The first 100 people to click this get a free 60-day trial. Ready, set, go!